- Match of the Week in round 2 of the Machineseeker EHF Champions League 2023/24 features two teams that both played their first CL quarter-final last season: Orlen Wisla Plock and GOG.

- Plock were kept away from the TruckScout24 EHF FINAL4 2023 by eventual winners SC Magdeburg, and GOG were defeated by record champions Barça.

- GOG won their CL 2023/24 season opener against RK Celje Pivovarna Laško last week, but still parted ways with head coach Ian Marko Fog the following day.

- Fog's former assistant Mikkel Voigt has taken over as GOG head coach until the end of the season.

- Plock suffered a narrow 24:23 defeat in their season opener against FC Porto in Portugal, after having led by up to four goals several times.

- Plock and GOG have met six times in the past four years, including twice in the EHF European League; each match ended in a victory for the home team.

- Only once were the visitors leading at half-time: GOG led 13:11 in Plock in the CL 2019/20 season, but the hosts ultimately won that match 27:24.

- Plock play their 16th CL season; GOG their 10th.

- Plock are experts for close results: from their last six CL matches, two ended with a draw, three with a one-goal margin, and one with a two-goal margin.

- GOG lost several key players last summer: CL 2022/23 MVP Simon Pytlick and Lukas Jørgensen both joined SG Flensburg-Handewitt, and Jerry Tollbring moved to Füchse Berlin.

- Next summer, Emil Madsen, the CL 2022/23 top scorer, will also move to Germany, joining THW Kiel.

- Plock reinforced their squad with experienced goalkeeper Mirko Alilovic (from OTP Bank - Pick Szeged) and centre back Miha Zarabec (THW Kiel).

- Alilovic has started in his 21st CL season; only Paris Saint-Germain HB star Nikola Karabatic has played more seasons in Europe's topflight: 22.

- GOG wing Frederik Pedersen is the smallest player in the CL 2023/24 season, at 1.65 metres; Plock's smallest player, Gonzalo Pérez, is still 10 centimetres taller than Pedersen.

- Both teams won their domestic cup competitions last season; GOG also won the league title in Denmark, while Plock narrowly missed that title in Poland.

- GOG have an all-Scandinavian squad, containing of only Danish and Swedish players.

- On the other hand, Plock's squad includes players of 10 different nationalities: Poland, Belarus, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Croatia, Czech Republic, Hungary, Russia, Slovenia, Spain, and Ukraine.
